Learn how to:

- Describe the profile of an active shooter
- Explain the importance of “observe and report”
- Develop an action plan for managing an active shooter incident
- Follow appropriate response procedures for an active shooter situation

Sept. 30, 10-11 a.m.

It's essential to be prepared for the unexpected in today's world. Knowing what to do in the event of an active shooter is not only crucial, but it can also save lives. This course will teach community health workers (CHWs) tactics to protect themselves and others during such an attack. The course covers defense and shelter-in-place protocols and emergency communication methods. Additionally, participants will learn how to recognize signs of potential workplace violence.

This training is supported by the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC), together with the Health Resources and Services Administration (HRSA) of the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services (HHS) as part of awards totaling $4,339,895 and $3,000,000, respectively, with 0% financed with non-governmental sources. The contents are those of the author(s) and do not necessarily represent the official views of, nor an endorsement, by CDC, HRSA, HHS, or the U.S. Government.
