Dec. 19, 6-7 pm

Community health workers (CHWs) will learn critical emergency preparedness skills for the workplace and field outreach. Being well-prepared is critical, as emergencies may require CHWs to sustain on their own for several days. The course will cover important aspects of emergency preparedness, such as putting together a disaster supplies kit with essential items for dealing with unexpected situations.

This training is supported by the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC), together with the Health Resources and Services Administration (HRSA) of the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services (HHS) as part of awards totaling $4,339,895 and $3,000,000, respectively, with 0% financed with non-governmental sources.
